Sir Edmund Hillary

Sir Edmund Hillary who died at the age of 88, made it to the summit of Everest in 1953, and became the first man on the planet to reach its highest point

As a schoolboy in new Zealand, Edmund Hillary's fragile appearance belied his promising potential.
At school, he was in a gym group for those lacking co-ordination and admitted to feeling "a deep sense of inferiority".

5 But the 40-mile journey to school in Auckland each day gave young Edmund many hours to pore over<sup>1</sup> adventure stories and travel even further in his mind.

At the age of 16, while on a school trip to Mount Ruapehu, he found his vocation. He saw snow for the first time and also learnt to climb<sup>2</sup>. Then, a few years later, he joined a local Alpine Club to take on<sup>3</sup> all the national peaks<sup>4</sup>. This was all with the idea of taking on<sup>3</sup> the ultimate challenge, becoming the first man to climb Everest.

10 In March 1953, Edmund Hillary joined an expedition to Everest; After a gruelling<sup>5</sup> climb up the southern face, battling the effects of high altitude and bad weather, Edmund and Tenzing Norgay, his Sherpa<sup>6</sup> companion managed to reach the peak at 11:30 local time on May 29.

15 As a New Zealander and therefore a citizen of the Commonwealth, British subjects celebrated his achievement as their own and young Queen Elizabeth knighted<sup>7</sup> him.

During the next two decades, he led expeditions to the South Pole, searched for the fabled Yeti, and completed six Himalayan ascents.

20 He became increasingly concerned by the plight<sup>8</sup> of the Sherpa<sup>6</sup> people he had met on his expeditions. And in 1964, he founded the Himalayan Trust, which helped establish clinics, hospitals and nearly 30 schools.

Although he will always be remembered for reaching Everest, his greatest satisfaction came with the Nepalese people he befriended. He said : "My most worthwhile things have been the building of schools and clinics; That has given me more satisfaction than a footprint on a mountain".
